OF THE COMMISSION IN BELFAST AND IES OF CLAIMANTS AND WITNESSES. COMMERCIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.] (ERALD's European edition publishes to-day owing from its correspondent:-

/AST, Feb. 7, 1891.—An important Comon of Inquiry, the proceedings of which vastly more interest to the people of ica than to the canny Ulster folk among a it is being held, has been sitting at the rican Consul's office in this city since the uning of the week. The object of the comdon is to take answers to interrogatories unitted from the Supreme Court of New

: regarding claims in connection with the wsuit of Sarah Branagh versus William P. ith, which has already been before the serican courts, and which is one of the merous cases growing out of the litigation er the fortune of the late A. T. Stewart.

The gentlemen to whom the commission is dressed are the American Consul in Belfast, . Samuel H. Ruby, and Sir James H. Hastt, ex-Mayor of Belfast. The proceedings re conducted in private, only one witness beg allowed in the room at a time. The legal gentlemen engaged in the case are, for the upolders of the alleged Stewart will, James Holmes, solicitor, New York, with whom is Digby Johns, of Belfast, for the local claimants; J. J. Brown, of Belfast, and J. A. Mc-Kenzie, of Dumfriesshire, is looking after the interests of a number of Scotch claimants. The names of witnesses who have been or will be examined are George Begby, Sarah Branagh (plaintiff in the action), Robert Lynes, William Dillen, Rosic Begby, Thomas Stewart, Thomas and Robert Begby, Hugh McCall, Susan Rae, S. D. Lamb and Thomas Lamb, of Belfast. As is pretty well known most of the ciaimants and witnesses concerned in the suits against ex-Judge Hilton hail from the neighborhood of Lisburn, which was the home of the Stewart famly, and near to which the deceased millionnaire vas born and reared.

A STRONG POINT.

A leading and most important fact elucidated so for is that the plaintiff, Sarah Branagh. whose mother's maiden name was Stewart, is a granddaughter of John Stewart, who was the brother of Alexander Stewart, who was father of A. T. Stewart, the deceased dry goods prince. with A. T. Stewart in the relationship of second cousin. George Begby is said to stand in the ame degree of kindred to the decessed millionnaire. George Begby stated in his deposition that he is the grandson of Jane Stewart, who was the sister of Alexander Stewart, A. T. Stewart's father. This witness in his examination showed that he possesses a most copious and apparently recent knowledge of the entire genealogy of the Stewart family, His occupation is that of a teacher of science. Begby was positive he had heard from the lips of his father, over and over again, of the relationship between their family and that of the Stewarts, and the elder Begby had said not less than a bundred times in the midst of the family group that his mother was Jane Stewart, who was a sister of A. T. Stewart's father. Witness deposed that after searching all the documents bearing on the family history he was more confident than he had been with that of the late A. T. Stewart. Documents copied from these records will be put in evihearing of the case.

A. T. STEWART'S COUSINS. His father had often told him that the late A. T. Stewart and himself had attended the same school together, both being intended for the On the death of A. T. Stewart he left daughter of A. T. Stewart's uncle John; Thomas Begby, son of A. T. Stewart's aunt Jane; Mary Holland, daughter of A. T. Thomas Stewart, sons of A. T. Stewart's unele William. One of these is still alive and is expected to attend and give evidence at the com-

Thomas Stewart, of Stonyford, near Lisburn, who was the common ancestor of the Stewart family, had six sons and three daughters-namely, Robert, John, Alexander, James Thomas and William, and Mary, Jane and Ann. Alexander was the father of A. T. Stewart.

In reply to cross-interrogatories witness admitted having come to an agreement, but it was at with regard to the division of the property ; it was with Herbert H. Walker, of New York. He had received no moneys or other compensation in connection with the present suit; on the utrary, be had been at considerable expense. hey expected, he said, to break the alleged A. Stewart will, and then they each hoped to ceive a distributive share of their rights.

MORE CLAIMANTS YET. There is, I am told, another batch of Irish imants, not concerned in the present inquiry ing to their names not being mentioned in instructions to the commissioners, and who ere precluded from appearing, the commission ing a close one, and none except those whose mes are mentioned being allowed to give evince. The names of the latter batch are Hold Magee, Robert Stewart, James Stewart. tewart. Miss Annett, Robert Bailey and hat there are heirs in Ireland to the

No. 49 AVENUE DE L'OPERA, Paris, Feb. 7, 1891. The Herald's European edition publishes to-day the following:-

There is a general plaint of quietness, and all who can have gone South, for the weather here is damp and chill. The official receptions at | French Chamber of Deputies, while at the Vatican the Elysée have begun, the first ball of the season having geen given last evening, and very that party to the Republic. brilliant it was. From Southern climes come echoes of the festivities of the Nice carnival, which began amid rain, though beautiful sun-

Reuben Sasson and Baron Hirsch were in the centre of the fight. J. Dawson Coleman, the American sportsman, took an active part. Others were Messrs. Debeza, Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank May, Mrs. and Miss Green, of San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lundel, of Boston, and Mrs. Fridenburg and party, of Philadelphia.

Mme. Nordica scored a big success at Monte Carlo in the rôle of Marguerite, in "Faust," and sang magnificently.

A brilliant ball was given at the American Legation in Berlin in honor of Mvs. Phelps' return. The legation was in a blaze of lights, the hall and staircase were decorated with flags and the ballroom was draped entirely with the Stars and Stripes. Tall palms graced the stairease and the rarest roses were strewn about the rooms. The guests included the whole Diplomatic Corps, the ballroom being filled with the upper ten of younger Berlin, while the officers of the royal guard furnished a strong contingent of indefatigable RELATIONS OF GERMANY AND ITALY. [COPYRIGHT, 1891, BY THE NEW YORK ASSOCIATED PRESS.] BEBLIS, Feb. 7, 1801,-Official assurances from Rome that the Marquis di Eudini will personally guide Italy's foreign policy, assuming Signor Crispl's engagements, including strengthened armaments, have removed much disquiet here. Emperor William had a communication from King before of the close connection of his family Humbert at the earliest period of the Cabinet crisis intimating his determination to agree to no would imperil the Dreibund, Ministry that dence before the American courts at the next but the Kuiser desired further assurances. Chancelior von Caprivi, during his recent visit to Milan, arranged for the completion of the Italian armament with the newest weapons, smokeless powder, &c., involving an outlay of the money derived from the new Italian loan, to which Signor Crispi assented. On Chan cellor von Caprivi's return here diplomatic docu five full cousins-namely, Mary Branagh, ments forming the appendix of a treaty of ailiance were got from Signor Crispi formally pledging Italy to army reforms, in which the German government was to assist in the manufacture of weapons, the Stewart's uncle Robert, and William and production of munitions and the furnishing of skilled instruction.

The question troubling the Emperor and his confidants, Chancellor von Caprivi and Dr. Miguel, Prussian Minister of Finance, was how far Signor Crispi's successor would accept the engagements made. At one period of the crisis King Humbert appeared to find extreme difficulty in getting the leading Italian politicians with whom he consulted to associate themselves with any Ministers who were pledged to support expenditures for the army which were likely to necessitate a loan. Dr. Mignel assisted in a solution of the crisis by getting a group of German financial houses to promise to Italiate a new Italian loan when it should be found necessary for the government to obtain ound necessary for the government to obtain funds.

Dr. Miguel must have held out some inducement to these bankers which it is certain will be diligently kept secret. Emperor William dined Wednesday night at Dr. Mignel's residence. On Thursday Marquis di Eudini agreed to the Crispi contracts in a block, whereupon king Humbert confided to him the work of forming a new Ministry.

Until the Italian Cabinet shall have been completed and its character seen the position will remain rather insecure.

King Humbert's action during the anxious time is unucerstood to have elicited an expression of personal esteem from Emperor Francis Joseph, and it is now reported here that the Austrian Emperor actually wont to the length of promising to visit the quirinal in the course of the year.

[BY THE COMMERCIAL CABLE TO THE HERALD.] The Herann's European edition publishes to-day the following, dated

London, Feb. 7, 1891 .- "Monte Christo" was produced at the Avenue Theatre this evening with great success. The house was crowded. Charles Warner, as Edmond Dantes, never appeared to greater advantage. He told me he expected to make the hit of his life in the part, Jessie Millward interpreted the part of Merordes to perfection. Henry Lee, as Noirtier, became a favorite on eight, and was admirable in all his disguises, capturing the audience as the Jew. Vanderfelt as Albert added considerably to his London reputation. Lablache was perfect in the first act as Mr. Danglars, but did not appear to so much advantage afterward; but the part is to blame as much as the actor.

It was evident from the first act that the piece would succeed. The principal characters were called before the curtain at the end of each act, and at the end of the last act the audience insisted on seeing almost the entire conpany time after time. Lee was then called on for a speech, and said he could only say "Thanks, a thousand times thanks!" If "Monte Christo" is not in for a run all first night signs fail, though the Avenue, being a burlesque theatre, is against it. The play is magnificently

BAR: ELONA, Feb. 7, 1891.—The excitement caused by the recent electoral contest by which the republican leader. Salmeron was, according to the repub licans, unfairly defeated by the conservative candidate, Puig, has not abated. The troops of the garrison are confined to their barracks, and prep arations are being made to send strong reinforcements to this city should the state of affairs call for an additional display of force.

Thousands of people not connected with the republican party have signed petitions which have been forwarded to Madrid, asking the government to dismiss the Civil Governor and other officials from office in consequence of the outrageous treatment upon the part of the mounted gendarmes of the crowd of people who gathered on Wednesday night to attend the reception given to Senor Salmoron. . The gendarmes, it will be remembered, charged the people who were listoning to a speech which was being delivered by the republican leader Salmeron, and firing right and left injured a large number of people. Bullets were found to have been flattened around the window where Salmeron was speaking. and his friends claimed that this was an attempt to murder him upon the part of the gendarmes who charged the crowd.

A CAMMELL-WILSON PLATE BREAKS UP THREE PALLISER PROJECTILES.

BY THE COMMERCIAL CABLE THE HERALD.! The HRMARD'S European edition publishes to-day the following, dated London; Feb. 7, 1891.—An interesting test of armor plate took place yesterday on board Wilson compound system—wrought iron faced with steel—and was manufactured at the Shef field works of Charles Cammeil & Co. as a part of the arguments. the Nettle at Portsmouth. The plate was of the of the armor belt of the war ship now being constructed by Laird Brothers at Birkenhead for the Argentine Republic.

The test was conducted by British Admiralty officers in the presence of Colonel Spurr and other officers of the Argentine Naval Commission. Lieutenant Commander W. H. Emory, the Naval Attaché to the United States Legation, was also present.

FACTS ABOUT THE PLATE.

The plate was eight inches in thickness and was cut to the size usually required in experiments on board the Nettle-namely, 8 feet by 6 feet-in order to make a direct comparison between this compound plate and similar armor of the Schneider-Creusôt make.

The Argentine commission required the test to be carried out on the same lines adopted by the French government in their reception tests of armor at Gavres.

HOW THE TEST WAS MADE,

The conditions of this test were:-Three Palliser chilled projectiles weighing 100 pounds each, fired from a new 6-inch breechloading gun, with 32 pounds of ExE powder, developing a striking velocity at a range of 30 feet of 1,566 feet per second, equal to a striking energy of 1,700 foot tons, or a total energy for the three rounds of 5,100 foot tons.

The shots were grouped in the centre of the plate at the three points of an equilateral triangle, the base of which was two and a half times the calibre of the shot, measured from centre to centre.

NO SECTIOUS DAMAGE DONE. The place withstood this test in a most perfect manner, breaking up into mere dust all three impression upon the hard steel face of the plate The indentation in one instance was only 1.2 inches, and in no case did it exceed two mehes. A few fine hair cracks were developed in the steel face, but these were so fine as to be almost invisible, and none extended beyond the thickness of the hard steel surface.

Although the plate is not yet taken down from the wooden backing the damage done to it is so slight that it may be safely assumed there will be no bulges in the rear of the impacts. COMPARISON WITH A SCHNEIDER PLATE

This test becomes particularly interesting when it is compared with a solid steel plate of Schneider manufacture which was tested on the 23d of May, 1890, at the French government polygon at Gavres and was classed by the government commission as "très-satisfaisant," the highest award of merit possible.

This plate was one forming part of the belt of the Chilian cruiser the Capitan Prat, measnring 18 feet 4 inches by 6 feet 9 inches. was 81-16 inches thick, tapering to 55-16 inches. Under similar conditions this plate allowed projectiles to penetrate nearly the full thickness of the plate, the latter itself being cracked through its entire thickness by the first use of Argoriusa Birress, the South American tonic.

To sum up this comparison, the total energy per ton of armor plate exerted against the English compound plate was 744 foot tons, while against the French all steel plate it was only 304 foot tons. The English plate, it is claimed, also possesses an immense advantage over its French rival in its greater resistance to penetration, in an entire absence of through cracking and in exhibiting the all important result of breaking up and destroying the projectiles on impact.

A good many liberals feel like throwing the whole question overboard. Both wings of the Irish party promise something definite next Thursday, but the promise is threadbare. This is due as much to the bad management of his enemies as to his own exertions, though he is undoubtedly for Parnell before everybody and everything, and has more fitness for the leadership of such a party than the rest of the nationalists com-
